An Idea Called Tomorrow

In An Idea Called Tomorrow, the artists' installations reflect an interpretation of some aspect of forging a "more civil and just society". Fast forward twenty-five years and discuss the questions below providing a rationale. Then create your own "Idea Called Tomorrow" in the graphic below.

Will we have or have had a female President of the United States?

Will we still be a two party government? Republican/Democrats

Will racial discrimination still exist in America?

Will reality TV still be popular and prominent in American culture?

Will anyone remember The Jonas Brothers?

Will American sports be co-ed males and females together on professional teams?

Will the gasoline still be the major source for fueling automobiles?

Will daily newspapers still exist?

Will the Taliban and Al Qaeda still be active in Iraq, Afghanistan and Pakistan?

Will there be peace in the Middle East between the Palestinians and Jews?

Project your "Idea Called Tomorrow" by illustrating a current item or issue of today and project how it might function or exist in the year 2039.
